WHO WE ARE

Connecting Indian farmland with the world's tables.

Sri Swastik International is an agricultural products exporter based in Anantapur, Andhra Pradesh, connecting Indian growing regions with buyers overseas — groundnut from our own Anantapur–Kurnool belt, red chilli from Guntur, and turmeric from the Erode–Salem belt.

We are a young company, but the people in it have spent years inside Indian agri supply chains — at the procurement desk, on the mill floor, and at the port. That experience is the reason shipments leave on schedule.

ABOUT GROUNDNUT

Where it comes from

The Anantapur–Kurnool belt in Andhra Pradesh is India's largest groundnut-growing region. Its red sandy soils and dry climate produce kernels with the firm texture and low moisture that exporters look for.

Sri Swastik International is based in Anantapur, in the middle of this belt — so groundnut is sourced locally rather than bought in. Lots are supplied in-shell or as shelled kernels, graded by count per ounce and tested for oil content, moisture and aflatoxin before shipment.
